

Games for All 1,000 Fry Words!

Each list of words is organized in sets of one hundred. The word cards may be printed in either black and white or a color version. If you choose to print the black and white version, I recommend that you print each set on a different color of card stock. The different sets of word cards may be used to play each of the different games. They may also be given to students to use as flash cards or displayed on a Word Wall in the classroom.

“BUS”-ted!

Choose a group of Fry words.
Add the “Bus-ted!” cards
to the word cards.

Shuffle all the cards and place facedown in a stack.

Set a timer for five minutes.

Players take turns drawing a card.

If the player reads the word correctly,
he gets to keep the card.

If he draws a “Bus-ted” card,
he must follow the directions on the card.

The winner is the player with the most cards
when the timer goes off.

Match It Up!

Turn the word cards face down in an array. Take turns flipping the cards over. If you make a match, you get to keep the pair of words and take another turn. The winner is the player with the most matches when there are no cards left in the array.

Look at your stack of word cards. Can you sort the words?

How? Make a graphic organizer to organize your thinking.

Look at your stack of word cards. Arrange them in alphabetical order.

Choose three words. Use all three words in one sentence.

Use a newspaper or magazine. Hunt for the words. Cut them out and glue them onto a piece of paper.

Copy each word in your best handwriting three times. Use a different color each time.

Read the words with a partner. Use different voices when you read them. Try a whisper voice, an opera voice, etc.

Sort the words based on the number of syllables. Make a graphic organizer to organize your thinking.

Use a timer to see how long it takes you to read all the word cards. Record your time. Try it again and try to beat your time.

Use stamps or letter tiles to make the words.

Rolling! Rolling! Rolling!

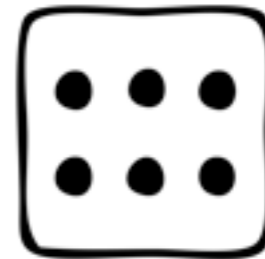

Place six of the sight word cards on the mat. Place the remainder of the cards face down in a stack. Roll a die. Read the word on the number you roll. If you are correct, keep the card. Add another card to the blank space. If you cannot read the word, the next player rolls the die. The player with the most cards when all spaces are empty is the winner.

Note to teachers: Use the cards your students need to review to play the game.

GO FISH!

Deal five of the word cards to each player. If there are only two players, deal seven cards. Place the remainder face down in a stack. Players take turns trying to make matches. They may ask an opposing player for a word. If the player has that word, he must give the card to the other player. If he does not have that word, the asking player draws a card from the pile. If he gets a match, he gets to go again. If not, his turn is over and the next player goes. The winner is the first player to run out of cards in his hand.

Bingo!

Write some of your sight words in each square of your Bingo card. Listen to the words that are called out. If one of the words on your card is called out, cover it with a marker. The first person to cover all of the words in one row or column is the winner.
